The Second Term English Test

The Text:

Elementary school days are supposed to be filled with happy memories and innocent pleasure. Unlike the majority of children who have had fun with their friends, I had an unhappy experience at school.

It all started at first year elementary school. I used to be a fat little boy; therefore; many pupils bullied me. They called me names such as “the big whale”. I didn't usually do anything when people called me names since I have lost self-confidence and became unfriendly. I just ignored it. But one day, I was in the park, and someone shouted, “hey, big whale!” It was three boys from my school. I told them they were stupid and walked away, but they chased me. Luckily, they didn't catch me because I hid from them. When I saw them in the playground at the school the next day, however, I couldn't escape. They pushed me and called me names. And it was the same every day after that. It was really terrible.

Then one day when I came out of school, they were waiting for me. They pushed me and my glasses fell off. When I bent down to pick them up, one of the boys punched me and another one kicked me. Fortunately, my teacher was passing by and saw everything. She immediately called their parents and they punished them. I'm glad my teacher was helpful and taught me to be confident, I have never forgotten her. If you keep it to yourself and don't say anything, the bullies will just carry on.
